

New Behavioral Network supports the current presumption that favors parents' rights to raise their children. We know that for children in foster care, reunification with their birth parents is often the primary permanency goal and the most likely reason a child will leave placement.

Our program is designed to educate families with positive parenting strategies. Program participation may improve the likelihood of reunification.

We accept Division of Family Services (DFS) and private referrals

New Behavioral Network-Delaware, Inc. is privately owned. Our mission is to provide services that offer a multidisciplinary team approach utilizing evidence based practice strategies that will have a positive impact on families and the individual client.

Educating families with positive parenting strategies

Program Objectives

New Behavioral Network– Delaware’s Family Intervention Program is focused on assisting caregivers in developing positive parenting techniques.

By participating in program services, caregivers will:

- Gain an understanding of positive parenting practices, which they can then incorporate into their daily routines.
- Address underlying issues preventing them from providing the best possible home environment for their children.
- Increase understanding and accessibility of local community resources.
- Create detailed and working monthly budgets to help them manage a household more effectively.
- Receive professional guidance navigating the various components and processes of the Family Court system

Team Members

Family Interventionist

The Family Interventionist provides the Division of Family Services (DFS) with updates and summaries detailing the caregiver’s program participation for Family Court proceedings.

The Family Interventionist provides direct services according to an individualized service plan. Their focus is to educate and model appropriate behaviors for the caregiver. They also act as a liaison between the Division of Family Services and the Justice System and provide testimony regarding caregiver program participation.

Services

Family Interventionists Provide Assistance With:

- Parenting Education and Strategies
